RENOVATING CHURCH.

$2,000 Expended on Eagle Harbor Catholic Edifice.

George Feller and George Lamerand have been engaged for the last three weeks in painting and otherwise improving the Catholic church at Eagle Harbor, the building requiring no less than three coats of paint.

With the new ceiling placed in it a few years ago, the new roof built last year and the present improvements, the structure bids fair to be the landmark for the next fifty years, that it has been for almost sixty years past, it being one of the very oldest church edifices standing in the copper country today, says the Keweenaw Miner.

Altogether, the improvements will have cost well up to $2,000, when it is finally completed, and the people back of the preservation of the edifice, headed by Rev. Fr. Alban are to be congratulated for the success attending their efforts to preserve the old building.

PROGRESSIVES HOLD BIG RALLY

Mac Clelland, Green and MacDonald Speak at Armory

George B. McClelland, a gold miner, Dr. Thomas E. Green, a chautauque lecturer, traveler and Episcopalian minister, and William J. MacDonald of Calumet, candidate for Congress, preached the doctrine of the Progressive party at an enthusiastic rally at the Light Guard armory Saturday evening. There was a large attendance and applause was frequent during each of the three addresses.

Mr. McClelland argued that both the Republican and Democratic parties have betrayed the people and their nominations of Taft and Wilson respectively were not the will of the people. The Progressive party, he characterized as the instrument of the people through which they may deliver themselves from the political servitude in which they have been held by the bosses. The Progressive platform, he declared, is a new declaration of independence. Roosevelt was eulogized by Mr. McClelland, who answered the charges that he is a dangerous man by recounting some of his accomplishments. He expressed the belief that the Republican party is no longer a factor in the election, and that it is up to the voters to choose between Roosevelt and Wilson. The Democratic low tariff plank was criticized and the Progressive plan to take the tariffs out of politics by them in the hands of a commission was recommended. Mr. McClelland stated that the most important plank of the Progressive platform are those calling for national legislation towards an eight hour day, minimum wage, regulation of prices, the establishment of social and industrial justice and the recall.

Dr. Green's address was fully as interesting as that of Mr. McClelland. He answered the charge that the Progressive party is one of discontent by saying:

"Of course it is. Take discontent out of human history and what remains? You have taken away everything that is worth while. We are discontented with everything that is unworthy and unholy and do not want the old things, but better things. Ten thousand men in America own sixty-two per cent of the country's wealth and the rest are wondering where their share is coming in. This is one of our reasons for discontent."

Dr. Green characterized the birth of the new party as a turning point in American history. He said that men naturally should be progressive for to stand still is to die.

The sending of missionaries to heathen lands to teach mothers not to throw their babies to the crocodile, was criticized by Dr. Green, who said, that in Chicago alone, ten thousand babies are allowed to die as a result of drinking milk infected with tuberculosis, sweatshops are full of underpaid men, women and children and underpaid girls are forced into ways of questionable living.

The rally Saturday evening was partly a reception for W. J. MacDonald, candidate for Congress, who arrived after it had opened and gave a brief address. He told of his reception in other parts of the peninsula. Mr. MacDonald stated that his nomination came unsolicited and that he realized when he accepted it that he would be made the object of vicious attacks. His expectations had been fulfilled, he said, for the Marquette papers had devoted no little space to every morning to attacks upon him. He stated that the interests for graft and lust in Houghton county, including the press, were against him, not because he had failed to do his duty, but because he had done his duty and worked against their interests. Mr. MacDonald was bitter in his denunciation of the press, which he claimed was subsidized. He stated that the only issue of the campaign was whether the people were to rule, and expressed confidence that the people have been awakened to the fact that this is their movement, and that no political bosses, no subsidized press nor any other force can prevent them from winning back their rights.

On this occasion the choir will render for the first time in Calumet, J. B. Van Bree's Mass No. 1 (revised) or at least a part of it. This is one of the most difficult of all masses.

The choir is composed of the following:

Tenors—Patrick Lang, Jacob Hartmann, Lucas Hermann, Theodore Hennepes, Joseph Lance, Robert Smith, Francis Harrington, Louis Beiring, Charles Wiesen and Alphonse Espe.

Bassos—Adolph Hennepes, Fr. Gihoul, Frank Simonich, Frank Ziehr, Raymond Hirsch, William Swain, Casimir Weiss, G. Sloan, William DeGooey and George Schneider.

Several good singers have recently made application to join the choir and it is expected it will become one of the strongest in the northwest.
